COLORED PAUPERS IN THE CITIES. -We understand that James Hayes, esq., President of the Overseers of the Poor for the Corporation, received a communication from Lieut. Sears, U. S. A., early this week, advising him of the recent order of Gen. Schofield, for turning over such of the indigent-without regard to race or color-as have hitherto been supported by the Freedmen's Bureau.

The Overseers have had a meeting and adopted a response most respectful in character but fully setting forth the impoverished condition of the people of Fredericksburg and its vicinity, and their inability, as far as the resources at their command are concerned, from complying with the letter of the Order.

. It is wholly unnecessary that we should refer to this inability in a newspaper paragraph. It is patent. Like the poor mendicant covered with rags, standing at the corner mute, being interrogated by the well-off passer by, with :-"It you want alms why don't you ask for them?" "Ah," said he in reply, "ain't it every rag on my back, that's pleading?"-Equally eloquent are our still dismantled and unfurnished houses, our unfenced lands, charred ruins over the whole county and town; the resources of town and county; a people scarcely able to make both ends meet after rigid, if not parsimonious, economy. We stand ing still further affliction, to forbear. The Freedmen's Bureau has, no doubt, many objects of true charity under their care-but they lo not belong to Fredericksburg. The State laws require each county to support its own poor. It is not just then that the scores gathered together in the Hospital here, from the outside world, should be emptied upon us, and this community forced to support them at the expense of a denial to their own

But it is not upon the score of justice that | Dyed. we chiefly demur just now. There is inability in the Corporation to do so. The interest on our debt of over $200,000, is not paid, although mainly held by our citizens, simply because of inability. Our taxes are put at the lowest rate for indispensables, and yet even these taxes cannot be collected.

In 1866, last year, there was levied on real estate a tax of $7,991,19, of which only $5,537, 96 was collected. Of this tax there was assessed on real estate held by the colored class, a tax of $29,15, and they were also assesed with 40. The colored people number very nearly, GROUND PLASTER. or quite, two-fifths of this community, and yet the tax collected from them on the above, on Union street, I am prepared to furnish a amounted to only forty dollars! A tax of $40 prime article of GROUND PLASTER on reacollected from two-fifths of our resident population!

We forbear comment, and hope that Gen. heart of Fredericksburg would otherwise respond. - Fredericksburg Herald.

AN EXPLANATION NEEDED. - Only ten thousand dollars have been given to the National Theological Institute, (Baptist) while twentyfive thousand dollars have been given to Howard University, a Congregational colored school of Washington, by the Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, out of the large fund of people of those States are Baptists, while such a person as a colored Congregationalist can hardly be found from the banks of the Potomac to the Rio Grande. Why not distribute this money in proportion to the strength of a denomination among the colored people, and in proportion to the work done for them, of which the institute stands first in the country? - Baptist Herald.

It will be difficult for Gen. Howard to afford any satisfactory explanation of this transaction. The fund alluded to was one intended to pay bounties, &c., to colored soldiers. All of it may yet be claimed, and the Government will have to satisfy these claims. Had the chief of the Freedmen's Bureau technically any right whatever to use any portion of this fund for these purposes? Not only the Baptists, but the Methodists and the Catholics and the Episcopalians had surely as much right to a share of its benefits as the Congregationalists, of which denomination there cannot be found one in a hundred among the emancipated negroes of the South.—Nat. Int.

It is proper to add here that the friends of General Howard deny that any partiality has been shown by him, and defend his course against these complaints.]

CHANGES IN HARBORS. - At the session of the National Academy of Sciences at Hartford on Friday, Professor Pierce, now Superintendent of the Coast Survey, made some interesting observations on the changes which are taking place along our coast and in some of our harbors. We take the following extract of all the latest styles; Guipure Lace; also, a from the report of his speech :

"Referring to the harbors of New York and | the times, at Boston, Professor Pierce said they were being destroyed. By filling them up or lessening their area in any way, the foundation for their ultimate destruction was laid. The United States Coast Survey had watched with much anxiety the violations of nature which had been made by commercial speculation in changing the bottoms and coasts of the harbors of the country. The fact was, that a very slight change might utterly ruin the best harbors which the nation owned. In conclusion, Professor Pierce said that geologists seemed to differ in opinion as to whether the continent low by was rising or falling. Some entertained one belief, and others embraced the opposite theory. This was a great question, and the United States Coast Survey intended to take it into early and full consideration."
